Beale Arboretum Winter News ~ February 2017

January has been very cold and the ground has been frozen for most of the month, but February has thawed and this has given us a window to plant out no less than 47 new trees!

The photos of the bare trees will not excite you at this time of year, but we can't wait to see them all burst in the spring!

Sequoiadendron giganteum 'Wellingtonia' by the front entrance x 2 and on the top field x 10 [pic right]

Ulmus procera,
Ulmus minor,
Ulmus x hollandica 'Vegeta'

Liquidambar acalycina
